CRITIC'S CHOICE

GERARD GILBERT

The Family Secret 9pm. Channel 4

The bravery of Katherine (left), the woman at the centre of Anna Hall's extraordinary documentary, is immense, given that she has allowed cameras to witness her confront the man who raped her from the age of seven. Accompanied by her mother to a restorative justice session, Kath, now in her thirties, listens as her older brother (seen only partially) recounts how it all started while visiting their granddad's house and became increasingly "intimate". Katherine is guick to counter that there was nothing "intimate" about what he was doing, that it was rape pure and simple. "It eats away at you," she says. "Like you're living a

Gold Digger 9pm, BBC1

You know how it is: you're sitting around the table for the family Christmas dinner when your mother announces that she plans to marry her much younger boyfriend, the one you suspect of only having designs on your mum's financial assets. For lawyer son Patrick (Sebastian Armesto) the solution is a prenuptial agreement, which he has handily drawn up, while ex-husband Ted (Alex Jennings) goes off the rails when he hears the news. Does he still have feelings for Julia (Julia Ormond)? Marnie Dickens' drama is nicely poised ahead of next week's hombshell development Stick around for the end credits for further details.

Rick Stein's Secret France 9pm, BBC2

The sight of Rick Stein ambling from restaurant to restaurant is enough to incite food envy in even the most abstemious of souls as this week the chef reaches the Mediterranean albeit not the glamorous Riviera but Languedoc-Roussillon. Here he quaffs Banyuls wine, meets a fisherman who uses cement on his prize-winning oysters and learns that aioli should be made with sunflower and not olive oil

Takaya: Lone Wolf 9pm, BBC4

Wolves are archetypal pack animals which makes the case of male wolf Takaya, who swam 1.5km across strong currents to a small island off the coast of British Columbia Canada so unusual. The wildlife photographer Cheryl Alexander has spent seven years documenting his life, exploring how he came to live alone on the island and adapted to his new home. Howling for a mate. Takava is fated to remain frustrated since the nearest wild pack of wolves

First Dates 10pm, Channel 4

What is it that they say about remarriage - a triumph of hope over experience? This doesn't seem to have put off 80-year-old Cliff as he tries to convince his date that the mistakes that led to his three divorces are in the past, while 26-year-old Corine, who already has her big day planned, looks for an affluent older man to complete the picture.

The Turner Prize 11pm, BBC4

Art lovers who caught last Friday's BBC2 documentary about Margate and its connection to the artist JMW Turner will know how apt it is that the prestigious prize for contemporary art named in his honour is this year taking place in the Kent seaside town. But tonight's live announcement of the 2019 winner (from a shortlist of four) does not come, as you might expect, from the Turner Contemporary art gallery, in the town but from its Dreamland amusement park and entertainment centre

Looking for Eric 1.15am, Film4

(Ken Loach, 2009)

Like the other films by Loach and writer Paul Laverty, Looking For Eric is about desperation and despair in austerity Britain. But by introducing a hint of magical realism to the socia realism, they make it a feel-good crowd-pleaser. Eric (Steve Evets) is a middle-aged postman in the midst of a breakdown – until he makes an imaginary friend in Eric Cantona (winningly played by "lui-même", left with Evets) and is inspired to reconnect to the life from which he had come adrift. The footballer's gnomic philosophising is comically incongruous in this context, but the joke only works because the rest of the drama is anchored in real life.

Mean Girls 4.15pm, Sky Cinema Comedy

(Mark Waters, 2004) A-grade high-school comedy written by Tina Fey, offering a selfconsciously anthropological study of teenage behaviour. Lindsay Lohar plays a new girl who infiltrates the clique headed by Rachel McAdams.

The Dark Knight 6.25pm, Sky Cinema Greats

(Christopher Nolan, 2008) Thanks to Heath Ledger, this largecanvas action movie belongs to Batman's colourful adversary the Joker: a deranged anarchogreat movie psychopaths.
